

Behavior Adjustment Training

Helping Idaho Dogs, Inc.,

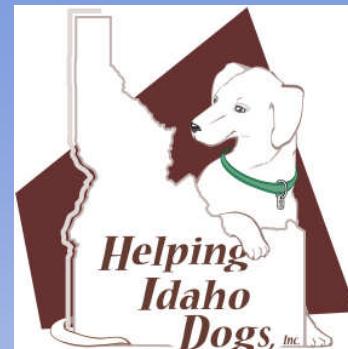

is proud to offer a day long Educational Seminar presented by

Grisha Stewart

founder of

Ahimsa Dog Training & Behavior Adjustment Training (BAT)

Saturday April 10, 2010 in Eagle Idaho

What to expect from the BAT Seminar

Open to ALL Dog Owners, and Canine Professionals

Live dog demos and lots of video. Learn how to build dogs' coping skills and decrease fear using BAT. You'll see how to use BAT for your own dog or for clients' dogs, including pitfalls to avoid and ways to combine BAT with other dog-friendly methods.

* BAT uses Functional Analysis, a scientific way to figure out how to get rid of problem behaviors and teach better ones.

Just about any 'bad' behaviors that are maintained by the dog's everyday life can be replaced by better behaviors, using the same environmental triggers and rewards that got your dog into trouble in the first place.

* BAT teaches dogs what to do in situations that bring out aggression and fear, which builds social skills, confidence around the trigger, and trust in the handler. While in some cases food or other rewards are used, BAT focuses on using rewards that the dog already experiences from the problem behavior.

* You'll also learn how to apply this kind of training to other common problem behaviors that don't involve aggression or fear.

About the Seminar Presenter:

Grisha Stewart from Seattle, Washington, is the owner of Ahimsa Dog Training and she specializes in the treatment and prevention of dog aggression.

Grisha has a Master's in Mathematics from Bryn Mawr College. She is now pursuing a Master's in Psychology with an emphasis in animal behavior at Antioch University, while still running her 8-trainer business and doing private consults for aggression cases. Her first career as a theoretical mathematician and college instructor serves her well in dog training and behavior consultations, because she relies heavily on the problem solving, critical thinking, and teaching skills she gained in that field. Since founding Ahimsa Dog Training in 2003, she has found her canine and human students to be much more excited about learning than her college students!

Canine behavior fascinates Grisha and she is highly motivated to share her techniques for rehabilitating and training dogs. This led her to develop BAT, which uses environmental consequences to reward the dog and eliminate problem behaviors.

Grisha was voted as Seattle's Top Dog Trainer by the readers of CityDog Magazine. Grisha presents seminars to dog trainers around the country. Grisha is a Certified Pet Dog Trainer.
